THERE appears to be trouble in the ranks of the Republican party in California. The candidates recently nominated by the State Convention do not give general satisfaction, and hence the disaffection. A reorganization is proposed, and another State Convention is to be called. There seems to be a growing feeling pervading the masses from Maine to California, that none but good men shall henceforward be selected for office. Mere care must be taken in the selection of candidates by Conventions, else the people will take elections into their own hands, and steer clear of party ties. Leaders of parties should not be slow in discovering the tendency of public sentiment.

THE Republican County Nominating Convention held in Washington on Monday, resulted in the selection of the following gentlemen as candidates for the ensuing Fall election:

Assembly—Messrs. Nicholson, Beaver; Col. Ewing and Major Day, of Washington county.

Sheriff—Major Henry A. Myers.

Treasurer—Capt. James H. Hart.

Commissioner—H. B. McLean.

Jury Commissioner—R. McLean.

Director of the Poor—Wm. H. Davis.

Hon. George V. Lawrence and William J. Alexander, of Monongahela City, were chosen delegates to the State Convention, which meets at Williamsport on Monday next.

SECRETARY STANTON hastaken ground against the recent opinion of the Attorney General. He differs with him in nearly every essential point as to who are entitled to registration. This stand on the part of Mr. Stanton will not prove surprising to the country. It will in a great measure make up for the silence he has maintained on other important political subjects, and tend greatly to satisfy the people that his tenacity in holding place in the Cabinet proceeded from no retrogression from the cardinal principles of his party.

THE State Republican Convention, which assembles at Williamsport on Monday next, will be composed of fit representatives of the party, and the proceedings will be watched for with much interest. It is believed that the holding of a Constitutional Convention will be strongly advised and recommended. The chances of Hon. H. W. Williams for the nomination for Supreme Judge look very fair, although the West has been taught from experience not to feel too sanguine of success.

THE New York World takes no stock in the belief that the cholera will appear in that city in an epidemic form. It says New York was never so healthy as at the present time, and that people who keep clean, eat moderately, and pay their debts, need be in no fear of cholera.

The Trial of Maximilian—Thirst for His Blood—Reported Capture of Santa Anna by the Liberals—Minister Campbell's Resignation.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Herald's San Luis Potosi special says: Maximilian's trial was to have been resumed to-morrow, but his counsel not having arrived from the capital, the case will probably not be reopened. Gen. Miramon's relations, who are in this city, have secured counsel in his behalf.

Negrete's assistant, Escobedo, is said to be signed by him, are issued here in the very seat of government and passed off as genuine, and many desire is manifested to in order to bring the fallen Emperor in contempt.

The growing insubordination of the military chieftains to the Central Government causes uneasiness here. Deserters are forming themselves into bands of robbers, which render the roads around San Luis Potosi very unsafe.

Up to the date of June 5th, the siege of the Capital still progressed. General Diaz was aiming at reducing the Capital in the same manner as Queretaro had been taken.

The Times says the report was received in Havana just as the steamer Eagle left, that Santa Anna landed at Vera Cruz on the 4th, but was compelled to re-embark. He then went to Missi, where the Liberals captured him. He was subjected to a military trial and sentenced to be hanged on the 8th.

The Tribune's special says: The President has been informed of the arrival of Santa Anna in Mexico.

The Herald's special says: Mr. Campbell, in response to an order to proceed to Mexico, said his health was such that he could not, but that if the necessity was so urgent as not to be delayed, he would resign.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

The Prisoner's Flight to Canada.

TESTIMONY AS TO DATES.

The Application of Defense to Recall Witnesses for Cross-examination Refused.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 20, 1867.

In the trial of Surratt, to-day, the defense submitted a motion, asking that the witnesses Hobart, Bliss and Dye, be recalled for cross examination on points which came to the knowledge of the defense. Since their other examination closed, the defense had received information which would enable them to show that in April, 1865, when the facts were fresh in his memory, Hobart stated the parties to whom he referred in his testimony as having got on the train at Kosse Junction, got on that train on Friday, the 21st of April, and not on Tuesday, the 18th. As to Bliss, the defense proposed to prove he made a statement before April 27th corresponding with that made yesterday, except as to the date when the facts came to his knowledge in Washington. They would show he positively fixed the date from the fact of his brother's death, being informed of it on the Thursday night, and it was Friday a. m. witness was put on the train. It was the object of the testimony to show that Surratt was at Montreal, on the afternoon of April 18th. He was at St. Albans on the morning of the 19th, and at Burlington, on the night of the 19th, on the way to Montreal. As against that the defence proposed to show that the two mails described by Bliss were put on the train on Friday morning, and not Thursday; that the two mails were pursued through Vermont to Canada, and that the pursuers tracked to their residence in Canada, and that it was ascertained neither of the men were there. The letters were found in this Department at Washington, and are still in the possession of the United States Government. Bliss testified that the night clerk of the men who slept in the depot was John H. Surratt.

After the cross-examination of Sergeant Dye, Mr. Merrick proposed to read a transcript from the docket of Alderman Dorrity, of Philadelphia, showing that Surratt was arrested in the early part of 1866, for uttering a counterfeit note on the First National Bank of New York.

The Court declined to allow the reading, and overruled the motion of the defence.

Edward E. Smith gave evidence that Surratt, in a conversation, joked about going to Richmond, but never acknowledged to having been there. Witness laughed and said: "If the Yankees knew what he had done, they would stretch his neck."

James M. Wright, Chief Clerk of the Bureau of Military Justice, identified certain papers as having been placed in his custody by Assistant Jacob Thompson's account with the Bank of Montreal, a draft on the Bank, and Booth's bank book.

Robert A. Campbell, teller of the Ontario Bank, Montreal, identified the signature in connection with him, said he and Booth had bloody work to do; they were going to kill the Illumined and unsolved. Witness thought at the time pulling a pistol out and laying it on a desk in the middle. Witness also saw Surratt on that occasion. Booth and Surratt previous to the assassination. Booth and Surratt transacted their livery business with him.

John Lee, now residing in Mississippi, formerly a detective in Col. Baker's force, testified to seeing a man he took to be Surratt on a steamer on the night of the 14th of April, 1865, had seen him before recognized him on the platform of the depot. Had known the prisoner at the bar was the man he met. Surratt was walking at an ordinary gait. He was walking fast. Also testified to finding April 15, 1865, in room 19 Kirkwood House, where Vice President Johnson resided, a coat containing a spur, a book, three pocket knives, a memorandum book, a Liquorice book, (produced and identified.) Also found between the sheet and mattress of the bed, on the same night, a pocket book or, on it, which was shown to President Johnson and secretary Stanton and deposited with Judge Hells. Witness was then a member of Col. Baker's detective force.

Samuel A. Rainey testified to keeping a stable in Washington, in 1865. Knew Surratt. Saw him at the stables several times. Kept a carriage for hire. Surratt hired one, who went to Richmond, testified that he saw Andrew Atzerot and John H. Surratt at Fort Pickens, January, 1865. Observed no communication between them.

Brooks, stabler, testified he had charge of the Howard Livery Stable, on G street, in 1865. Small Boy Smith, who had charge of orders that no one but Booth and himself should get horses there. Had seen Booth, Atzerot and Surratt together frequently.

Witness was asked if he had any conversation with Atzerot about Surratt in April, 1865.

Mr. Bradley objected to the question, as the conversation related to a note which had been lost.

Mr. Pierrepont suggested it would be best to postpone a further investigation until the note was produced. Recess was taken until to-morrow morning.

UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY, E. D.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ELLSWORTH, THREE MILES BEYOND FORT HARKER, June 7, 1867.

We arrived here this morning from the end of the road, where we staved last night, supped in a big tent, slept in the cars, and where we had a glorious meeting over which General Cameron presided, and at which Attorney General Brewster, of Pennsylvania, was the chief orator. His speech was one of classic elegance, and rose fully up to the inspiring associations with which we were surrounded. Mr. Perry, the President of the Company, was then called and made a few felicitous remarks. He was followed by Judge Usher, of Indiana, who spoke eloquently and in perfect accord with the unanimous sentiment of the party, that the great enterprise, the progress of which we had come to witness, was deserving of liberal aid from both government and people.

After a quiet night's rest in the sleeping cars, we were summoned to an early breakfast, after which we took ambulances for Ellsworth. This is a bustling and really pleasant place, nearly six months old, and containing fifty or sixty stores and dwellings. It is located on a beautiful piece of land on the bank of Smoky Hill, which is here about the size of the Conemaugh at Blairsville. The country around here is beautiful. The river is skirted on either side with a belt of timber, all the rest being prairie. Above the bluffs the country is undulating, and hills in the distance. The more eastern part of Kansas. The soil is altogether different, being a strong sandy loam, in some places fifteen feet deep before reaching bedrock of men, one little party, who were cooking their dinner, wanted me to go with them. I asked how long it would take, I was answered "only a month and a-half." "Are you fellows out each time?" I asked. "No; you fellows out each time and talk more about the Indians than we do," was the answer. I declined the invitation.

The Union Pacific Railway from the Missouri to Fort Harker is a very good road—much better than any we found between Leavenworth and the Missouri. The road runs Salina and this place, where the road cuts across a long southern bend in the river, there is said to be a saving of nine miles.

Fort Harker is about two miles east of Ellsworth, on a beautiful piece of ground at a somewhat elevated point above the river. There are no valuable buildings, nor is it likely there ever will be; for the railroad will render even a military post at this place unnecessary. General Hancock ordered that every forty miles of this road finished enabled the government to dispense with the services of a regiment of men, or a saving, in this distant region, of more than a million of dollars a year.

We had a glorious meeting here at the fort this afternoon, at which brief addresses were made by Senator Henderson, of Missouri, who presided; General Hancock, Hon. M. Orth, Representative in Congress from Indiana, Hon. Mr. Stephens, Representative from New Hampshire, Hon. Mr. Nicholson, of Delaware, Hon. Mr. Niblack, M. C., of Indiana, Hon. M. Ketcnen, M. C., from West Virginia, Mr. Chandler, from New Hampshire, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Mr. Hubbard, M. C., of West Virginia, Hon. F. J. Shafer, prior to the late Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Mayor Thomas, of St. Louis, Judge Kingman, of Missouri, and Hon. Mr. Woodward, of St. Louis. These were followed by several gentlemen of the press, and by a talented character from the train officers, as to the length of the company then sang the Star Spangled Banner, and adjourned to a most excellent dinner spread in a large tent.

Those of our party who are going further west took leave of our friends, including all the ladies, who are returning, some fifteen of our party to Leavenworth by Pond Creek, and one or two to Santa Fe. Pond Creek is two hundred miles west of Ellsworth, in full process of being settled. Another party will start to-morrow, and my programme for next week will be governed by circumstances. Probably you will hear from me from that place.

The Grand Jury at the County Home.

At the invitation of Mr. E. H. Davis, overseer of the Poor of Allegheny county, the Grand Jury, Judge Stowe, Thos. Howard, Wm. Douglas, and Josiah King, Esqs., visited the County Home, yesterday. The party left the Court House at half-past nine o'clock, in carriages, and after a delightful drive, arrived at their destination at half-past eleven. The Home is situated on the south side of the county in a beautiful valley, surrounded by hills and forests. The farm contains two hundred and ten acres of excellent land, all of which is in a high state of cultivation. The immediate grounds around the building are beautifully laid out in serpentine walks, dispersed with evergreens and flowers, and the main building is a beautiful miniature lake, which receives its supply from a splendid fountain, from which the water is continually spouting forth in pearly jets. After the tour of the farm and grounds were completed, the guests were next conducted to the dining hall, where a bountiful repast for the inmates was prepared. The food was of a substantial and healthy quality, and in the midst of the meal, the inmates, the inmates, numbering one hundred and ninety, partake of their dinner, the guests were conducted through the various departments of the house, where they found everything in excellent order. The beds and bedding were of the best quality, cleanliness prevailed throughout the sleeping apartments, and all present expressed their hearty approval of the manner in which the institution is conducted. An hour for dinner having arrived, the guests were conducted to the dining-room, where a sumptuous repast was awaiting them, and after a number of substantial dishes and all the delicacies of the season, to which they did ample justice, cigars were lit in appreciation of the matron's (Miss Emma Barrett) requirements in the culinary art. After dinner the party returned to the school room and witnessed an examination of the scholars, which reflected credit on the institution. The manner in which the examination our sympathies were deeply interested in an idiotic boy, apparently under the influence of liquor, was a perfect burlesque of intelligence, and on examination with three others of his class, missed a number of questions, affording much merriment to the audience. After the examination was concluded, appropriate addresses were delivered to the children of the school by Judge John H. Ebbert, Esqs., at the close of which the school was dismissed, and a meeting organized by calling Judge King to the Chair and W. B. Ogden to act as Secretary. Mr. King addressed the meeting with a few brief and appropriate remarks, in which he highly complimented the institution and all connected with it.

The following resolution was offered by W. Negley, Esq., and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting are hereby tendered to the officers and inmates of the Home, for the kind hospitality exhibited to us on this occasion, and that we desire to express our gratification to them, for the excellent manner in which the institution is conducted.

The meeting was entertained for a considerable length of time by addresses from Messrs. Howard, Herron, Brunot, King and Ebbert, all expressing themselves highly gratified with the manner in which the institution is conducted, with the locality of the buildings and their beautiful surroundings, after which Mr. Davis responded, expressing the pleasure of his colleagues who were making out their yearly statements. That a large amount of money had been expended and a great many improvements made. That there were many others necessary, and he would be glad to have the Grand Jury make a close inspection of the premises, and make such suggestions as they deemed proper. After which the meeting adjourned, and the guests started for the city, all apparently well satisfied with their excursion.

Too much praise cannot be given to Mr. McElroy, the gentlemanly manager, and his worthy assistants. The unfortunate efforts to ameliorate the condition of the unfortunate creatures under their charge.

Presentation and Pleasant Occasion.

No booth at the recent successful "Monumental Fair" contained more pleasing or genious workers than the "Sunny Side," in charge of Mrs Gen. A. L. Pearson. Having the great object for which the fair was held at heart, and being separate and apart from any society, church or other organization, they labored unceasingly to make their booth a source of profit second to no other in the hall. They admirably succeeded, but much was due to the generous contributions and attentions of General A. L. Pearson and his estimable lady. The young ladies of the booth and a few gentlemen friends conspired together to bestow upon them a substantial token of the high estimation in which they are held, as well as a practical recognition of their unceasing labor at the fair. They accordingly purchased a superb set of furs and a handsome silver presentation. Some twenty or thirty young folks visited the General's residence, on Wednesday night, and taking the complete and absolute possession of the house, without a word of warning, proceeded to present the silver ware. I. D. Flack, Esq., delivered the presentation speech in neat and felicitous style, and the General responded in his usual happy vein. The young folks having possession of the parlors, and being accompanied by an excellent band of music, finished their "surprise party" by stripping the light fantastic toe" till broad daylight. We are pleased to record this tribute of respect, esteem and friendship to our patriotic citizen and his excellent lady.

Pittsburgh High School.

The commencement exercises of the Pittsburgh Central High School took place last evening, at Masonic Hall. At an early hour in the evening the spacious Hall was filled to its utmost capacity with a highly intelligent and appreciative audience. The exercises were opened with prayer, and interspersed with delightful strains of soul-stirring music. The orations and essays were of the highest order, and were listened to with breathless interest, until their conclusion, when they were greeted with a round of applause and a shower of bouquets from the delighted audience.

At the conclusion of the performances the graduating class, six in number, were called up and presented with diplomas.

The annual re-union of the Alumni Association will be held in Plymouth Congregational Church, Hand street, to-morrow evening. The following is the programme of exercises.

Valedictory of the retiring President—W. H. Moore, class of 1866.

Inaugural of the President Elect—J. G. Bryant, class of 1861.

Poem—Miss J. E. Branstrup, class of 1861.

Address—John H. Kerr, class of 1866.

Essay—Miss Julia Dommler, class of 1864.

PITTSBURGH FEMALE COLLEGE.

The Grand Musical Contest—Spirited Performances—Award of the Judges.

The musical event of the season transpired last evening in the beautiful chapel of the Pittsburgh Female College, and was attended by a brilliant assemblage of ladies and gentlemen. The grand contest for the "McKee" and "Mellor" endowment prizes had been impatiently looked tor by the intellectual and musical circles of the city, inasmuch as previous entertainments of the character had elicited the warmest encomiums of praise from the most accomplished critics. The audience embraced a majority of our amateur vocalists and musical celebrities, and the deepest interest was manifested. At a few minutes to eight o'clock the young lady rivals, nineteen in number, entered the hall from the class rooms, and were assigned positions on the stage, in the centre of which had been placed a magnificent full toned Chickering piano, on which the relative merits of the contestants was to be decided. The Judges, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kleber, Professor Clement Tetedoux, W. H. Everson, W. P. Marshall, and Max Livingston, Esq., next took their position, and after a few appropriate remarks by President Pershing, and an eloquent appeal to the Throne of Grace, by Rev. M. Wolf, the exercises commenced.

THE VOCAL CONTEST.

Prof. Robisock, under whose masterly tuition the contending rivals have acquired such evenly proficiency in the cultivation of voice and the manipulation of the pearly keys of the piano, accompanied the young ladies considering for superiority as vocalists. Sophia Gamble led off, staging in exquisite style the difficult composition "Pretty Rosaline," which was followed by a brilliant performance by Miss Anna Wilson and James Kennedy. The clerk then secured the services of Captain Bowden, of the 18th Ward, and had them arrested in bed. They were removed to the lock-up, to await a hearing.

Re-united.

The Waynesburg Messenger says: About sixteen years ago Samuel state, of Richill township, in this county, married his cousin, Cassandra State. After three children were born to them, about the year 1858, State went to California. He wrote home for a time from the course of a year or two after he went there, and then ceased. His wife, believing from his silence that he was dead, married Jonas Chess sometime after. Chess went into the army and died. A few weeks ago, State, the first husband, returned from California, to find his wife married, and a widow! There is now no legal obstacle in the way of their resuming their first engagement.

Examination and Exhibition.

The Ninth Ward Public Schools are closing their present prosperous session in the usual manner. The examination of rooms number eleven and twelve have been held, and the other rooms will be reached to-day. The parents and friends are respectfully invited to attend these examinations, and see for themselves whether there is a disposition of education, or a dull repetition of former years. On this evening an entertainment, consisting of speeches, essays and singing, will be held in Trinity M. E. Church. The house will be decorated for the occasion, and a lively good time is expected. Admission free. All are invited to come.

Reckless Driving.

McClurg and Bro. stable keepers, Smithfield street, made information before Alderman McMasters, against J. B. Dalgleish, charging him with reckless and careless driving. It is alleged that on Sunday last, the 16th inst., defendant procured at their stable a valuable horse and buggy. Dalgleish is charged with having broken the vehicle and abused the horse in such a manner as to disable him. The proprietors now make information against him for misdemeanor, under the Livery Stable Act.

Assault and Battery.—Mary Ann Mather made information before Alderman Taylor against Philip Beilstein, charging him with assault and battery. The deponent lives in the Fifth ward, and alleges that on Wednesday evening last Beilstein, who resides in Allegheny City, came to her home and abused her in a shameful manner, pulling her hair and shaking and throwing her around the room. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Beilstein.

Larceny of a Coat.

On Wednesday night last, about ten o'clock, three men came to Carson's Hotel, corner of Beaver and Ohio streets, Allegheny, and applied to Mr. Black, the night clerk, for lodgings. The clerk proceeded to show one of the men to his room, leaving the other two in the sitting room. On returning down stairs, however, Mr. Black found the two gents missing, as was also his coat, valued at about twenty dollars. At three o'clock this morning, the men returned to the hotel, and were assigned lodgings, their names as John Wilson and James Kennedy. The clerk then secured the services of Captain Bowden, of the 18th Ward, and had them arrested in bed. They were removed to the lock-up, to await a hearing.

Seriously Injured at Lock No. 2.

On Wednesday evening a serious accident occurred at Lock No. 2 on the Monongahela River, by which Mr. James

OPINION OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

When the Military Government Bill was passed by Congress, the President embodied his objections to it in a veto message. In that document, he construed the powers given to the District Commanders in the sense intended by the two Houses, and in the ordinary acceptation of the language employed. All that could urged against the bill on account of alleged severities, or of departures from the principles and methods of the civil law, he presented, and with the utmost perspicuity and force. His objections were overruled by Congress, and the bill was passed into a law.

The President, soon after, signified his intention to carry out the law, as the Chief Executive officer of the nation, and in the spirit in which it was actually conceived and expressed. In this he only expressed his readiness to perform his undeniable duty. The point had passed in which he was entitled to propound his opinion as to the propriety of the law. Being on the statute books, in a constitutional manner, he was made under obligation to execute it as promptly and efficiently as though he approved of it most heartily.

In selecting the officers to carry the law into effect, however, he hesitated. He was clearly disposed to give the preference to those who would be likely to lean towards his general policy, rather than towards the Congressional plan. He assigned to this duty such officers as he saw fit. It so happens that with one consent these commanders have construed the law as was intended by Congress, as the President construed it in his veto message; as the nature of the circumstances which the law was designed to meet, actually required. In some particulars, indeed, the commanders have solicited instructions, but not so much because they were in doubt as to what ought to be done, or as to their right under the law to do it, but from a desire to arrive at essential unity of action in the various districts, and to prevent appeals to the President, which would tend to unsettle affairs and so hinder the progress of Reconstruction. The action of the commanders has been so wise and efficient as to give universal satisfaction to the loyal people of the nation; to hush the spirit of insubordination at the South, and to hasten the period when the revolted might be safely readmitted to their old positions in the Union.

The President has been uneasy. The Congressional plan was operating so well as to draw commendation from many of the eminent rebel Generals, and in eight or nine months the process of restoration under that plan would be complete. In consequence, he and his advisers have been meditating a scheme to emasculate the Military Government Act by interpretation. Several weeks have been devoted to incubating this scheme, and at last Mr. STANBERY, the Attorney General, has developed it in the form of an elaborate opinion upon the details of the law. This opinion is drawn with considerable ability and adroitness; but it is simply a lawyer's plea to defeat the will of the nation. All men of sense understand that a skillful lawyer is ready to make an argument on either side of a question; and it not unfrequently happens that a lawyer, on one day, before the same Court, makes a plea in one case, taking one view of the law, and another plea, in another case, taking exactly the opposite view; and each, considered separately and apart, ingenious and calculated to mislead persons not disciplined in exact discriminations.

The Attorney General decides that about all the District commanders have done—at least all that true men have applauded them for doing—has been done wrongfully, and consequently must be undone. At the same time he admits they have acted honestly, and with a view to obtaining the best results. These Generals whom he censures are known to the people as thoroughly loyal, as truly national, as anxious for speedy reconstruction, as intelligent to an unusual degree, and as abounding both in discretion and decision of character. They have not acted without what seemed to them to be manifest cause; and they will be sustained by the people, no matter what the President may propose.

But the real issue is not between the President and the Generals, but between the President and Congress. He clearly seeks to frustrade the intention of Congress; to give the opinions of his Veto message, which Congress in turn vetoed, the effect of law. In this, he is treading upon ground dangerous to himself. Congress is not in a humor to be baffled, or to be trifled with; and he may find himself impeached and deposed.

CARE OF THE CRIMINAL INSANE.

Since attention has been specially directed to the care and treatment of the insane, many questions have arisen requiring special knowledge of various minor matters for their satisfactory discussion. Among these the proper disposition of those who were insane at the time of the commission of some grave offence, or who became insane subsequently to conviction, while serving out the time of their sentence in prison, claims and must receive full attention.

The first impulse is to say that all such cases should receive all the attention which can be given them in a well regulated hospital for the insane, but qualifying circumstances require to be carefully considered in the proper disposition of all such cases. It may be said, as it often has been said, that insanity breaks down all distinctions, and places all men so afflicted on the same general level. As a general proposition that is true, but not in its special application to certain cases, where other considerations acquire a preponderating influence.

Certain persons have been all their days in systematic violation of all laws, and when sentenced to undergo the penalty of those violations, become insane. Every sensitive mind shrinks from placing such an individual in company with one whose whole life has been an exemplication of all that is true and honest, and whose disorder has been induced by disease or exposure for the benefit of others. The one glories in his deeds of shame and outrage of laws, and never wearies recounting the deeds of his life, while the other loathes everything which has the appearance of transgressing the laws of the land, and constantly heaps reproaches on himself for his neglect to live more strictly to the requirements of the Divine law. Would not the influence of the former on the latter be prejudicial to the efforts made for his restoration? Every one feels the force of the question so often and so forcibly asked by the honest and upright insane, "what have I done to be compelled to associate with —— listen to the coarse, vulgar language of such an abandoned man?" Or, put the case as applied to a female relative. How true the language and conduct of the most correct and gentle are far from being in their moments of maniacal excitement what it was in their healthy, natural state, but there is a vast difference between the ravings of disordered mind and the systematic vulgarity of one whose whole life has been given to transgression. Or, take another view of an equally practical character. Is it in accordance with the golden rule of doing to others as we would have others do to us, to place the strongly homicidal, the inveterate housebreaker, or one whose constant effort is to set fire to whatever comes within reach, in wards with those who are harmless; whose delusions are of a desponding, melancholic character, wrapped up entirely in their own thoughts, timid, fearful, retiring and shrinking at a shadow? Where such cases are purely the result of disease or misfortune, they may be distinguished from those which occur in individuals who have led vicious lives, and for whom the safety of the lives and property of the whole community require that stronger walls and more effectual safeguards should be provided. No hospital for the insane should have its mild and moderate discipline interfered with by the restraints and safeguards which must be provided for a prison, and all substitution of additional guards and precautions only add to those unpleasant features about a hospital which all who have the true interest of the insane at heart are anxious to dispense with as much as possible.

Considerations such as these have led to the establishment in other countries of institutions specially designed for the criminal insane. Those with which we are best acquainted from their official reports are in Ireland, Scotland, England and in New York, no information relative to what has been done on the continent of Europe being within reach. The statements which are here given are taken from official documents published by the Government. In Ireland an institution for the criminal insane was built by the Government at Dundrum, in the immediate neighborhood of Dublin, and was opened for occupation in 1859, and according to the testimony of the Inspectors in their last annual report to the Government, has fully answered the purposes of its erection. The classes specially confined there may be judged of by the following statement from the report of 1865: Homicides, 38; assaults on the person, 53; attempts to destroy property and minor offences of all kinds, the parties being dangerously inclined, 34; making a total of 125, divided into 84 males and 41 females. The Inspectors are the same as those who have supervision of all the Asylums in Ireland, receiving their appointment from the Lord Lieutenant, and have served many years in that capacity.

In England, the Government have established within twenty miles of London, at Broadmoor, Sussex, a Criminal Lunatic Asylum, designed to accommodate 500 patients. Care has been taken to enclose a large tract of land immediately adjoining the building with a high wall for greater security and protection. By the report submitted June, 1866, we learn that there were in that institution on December 1, 1865, 326 males and 97 females. But this by no means gives an idea of the provision in England for this class. Bethlehem Hospital (abbreviated into Bedlam), London, has for years been the place where persons acquitted of State offences, attempts on the life of the Sovereign, or of any of the Ministers, have been confined. This hospital is not, however, under the control of the government, but is now "nominally under the general direction of a body of Governors, at present exceeding three hundred in number. Out of this general body is elected a Managing Committee, consisting (besides the President and Treasurer) of forty-two Governors, and this committee sub-divides itself into various sub-committees." Constant contentions have occurred for years between the Commissioners in Lunacy and these Governors, but the Governors stand on their chartered rights and have thus far managed affairs in their own way.

The largest number of criminal insane in any one institution, except Broadmoor, is in a licensed house, called Fisherton House, in Westshire, where, by the last return, there were two hundred and seventy-six.

The fact that many others are still found in the county asylum, has been frequently commented on by the Commissioners in Lunacy, and they have been urgent in their appeals for the removal of this class to houses specially provided for them.

In Scotland a lunatic department of the general prison, at Perth, has been constructed for this class, and was occupied at the date of the last official report by thirty-one males and thirteen females.

The only special provision in this country has been made in New York, by the erection of wards for this class in immediate connection with the State Prison, at Auburn, and by the last report (the 7th) we find the number there confined was seventy. All these institutions are under the care of a medical man, who devotes himself to their special care and treatment.

In an article, a few months since, we indicated what would be, in our opinion, the best plan to be pursued in this State in reference to this class; the erection in the enclosures of the two penitentiaries of accommodations sufficient for them, as the number is not large, and they could have the advantage of the medical treatment requisite in their case from the physician of the penitentiary. The time has arrived when some provision must be made for this class, and a full examination and discussion of the whole subject must be had before any measures are adopted, and the earlier that discussion takes place, and the more thorough, the more will the necessity of the early adoption of some plan be perceived and understood. INVESTIGATION--No. 1.

THE TEETH.

Most writers on the diseases of the human system either directly or indirectly ascribe the causes to imperfection in its organic structure. That is an assumption in conflict with common sense as well as with science. Recently, in accounting for the decay of teeth, the large German jaw and the small English teeth are said not to harmonize when marriage takes place between two of these different nations, and that a derangement of structure in the jaws and teeth are transmitted to offspring. This is supposed to be a sufficient answer on this vital question to the inquirer of the causes of decay. Now, it is not to the mal-adjustment of English teeth in German jaws, or to German teeth in English jaws, that we are to look for the decay. If it were admitted that diversity of size and mal-adjustment of teeth and jaws caused an imperfect formation of the teeth, or an irregular formation and arrangement, it might be considered sound reasoning, but it would be a very superficial answer as to the cause of decay. Every one who knows anything of the healing art knows that the thigh-bone of a horse which has bleached in the field for years, if immersed in diluted muriatic acid, the phosphate of lime will in a few hours be removed and a knot may be tied in it, and the same may be done with a rib from the human skeleton. This is plain to the understanding of every man who has a knowledge of chemistry; but to those who have not it is sufficient to say that the bones consist of phosphate of lime and gelatine, and that the process is simply the removal of the phosphate from the gelatine, which is as the frame-work before birth, and subsequently becomes ossified. The component parts of the bones, the teeth, and the nails are the same modified in different proportions. If this disorganization may be so easily accomplished in the dead bone, why not in the living tooth? Just as easily, with this difference, that the acid must be reduced to a greater extent to cover the crime of intention, and it proceeds by the circulation to destroy the life of the tooth and produces the susceptibility to decay. No tooth ever ached, and no head ever ached, but by the introduction by stealth or deleterious matter into food and drink, by the fiend, practice to reduce superiority to an inferior standard and a lower level those whom they pursue with a malignant hatred to destroy life when it can be done with impunity. That most important apparatus for sustaining the health and life of man, his teeth, have been made the stake of gambling speculation on the health and happiness of the people. While one party by poisons extracts them out of our jaws, another by laughing gas proposes to restore them, and the sufferer is ignorantly made to pay the cost in each case, and also in the wear and tear in health and depreciation of life and no indemnity from either side. Nothing could indemnify, nothing could compensate the loss. Between the artificial teeth and those furnished by the Creator, in utility and beauty there is no comparison. If people were only cautious and wary, and no longer believed the impudent fabrications assigned for the decay of teeth, and the causes traced to their origin, the malice of the wicked and the envious, there would be no more aching or decay of teeth. Muriatic acid diluted and other poisons introduced by stealth into food and drink, are the true causes of all aching and decay. All the tarter ever collected on teeth, and all other causes proximate or remote are to be ascribed to the same cause. The gastric juice of the mouth is sufficient to dissolve all the food that remains in the mouth after eating, and the tongue is the natural and best brush to collect and to convey by the ordinary motions all into the gullet, and thus discends into the stomach. By these agencies the mouth is kept perfectly clean, and no foul tongue, nor ache, nor decay can possibly take place without the introduction into the stomach of deleterious substances.

Exhume a skeleton that has been interred for a hundred years, and the teeth will be found entirely perfect, whilst other parts of the bony structure may have suffered exfoliation. This fact alone ought to reach the common sense and convince the understanding of the ordinary observer, that nothing but poisons of the highest solution could affect the teeth and inflict decay. They are covered with an enamel for their preservation and utility, beauty and indestructibility have been in them by the Creator most perfectly combined.

For abundant evidence we may appeal to the general fact that those half civilized races who live on one or two articles of food, where no opportunity exists for adulteration, the teeth remain sound until death, and for ages after. A bad breath results from similar causes, for it would be as impossible for a man as it would for a horse to have a bad breath neither having eaten what had an offensive odor, but in food for men deleterious substances are covered by agreeable flavors to impose on his understanding and to impair his health. Decayed teeth do sometimes taint the breath, but that is only when the gastric juice is perverted or its power is neutralized, and we speak from high authority, when we say that tainted meat loses its putrescent odor and is restored by the gastric juice. So would decayed teeth be deprived of their putrefactive odor by the same disinfectant principle, if the same causes that produce the decay did not remain in the system. It is impossible that offensive breath shall arise from food received into the stomach, for the gastric juice animalizes all nutritious substances received. Its disinfectant and solvent powers are infallible in its character until its character is absorbed by the action of poison. Its powers are especially characteristic, its capacity always innocent, and its action never injurious on any substance; nor can it become so in combination with any other substance. It always does alleviate the action of poison, but never can aggravate its effects. This is seen from magnesia and the white of eggs, being specific antidotes, and coffee general. All the dentrifices that have ever been invented cannot beautify or preserve the teeth; the cause of discoloration and decay lies deeper; it is in the circulation. As well rub your finger nail with such preparations. They become hard from the same causes as to sink into the thumbs and great toes in defiance of the skill of the faculty. If it were not from such causes they would be flexible and not like the horn of the cow, given to her for defense.

Murderess Sentenced—Impressive Scene.

On Monday Bridget Durgan, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Mary Ellen Coriel, in New Market, was brought into court at New Brunswick, to be sentenced. Her counsel made a motion for a new trial, which, after consultation, was denied by the court, and the prisoner, upon being asked if she had anything to say, reiterated, through her counsel, that she was innocent, and that a person now at large was able to relieve her of the charge, and had promised to do so, but had failed. The court then, with the most impressive solemnity, passed upon her the dreadful sentence of death by hanging, on the 30th of August next. The awful purport of the gloomy words overcame her, and she uttered alternately loud shrieks and piteous moanings until the doors of the prison were again closed upon her. The courage and indifference that she had manifested all through the trial was melted into tears, and her long silence was broken by fearfully piteous cries. The judge ordered the Sheriff to remove her, and she was taken from the room to her cell still sending up a terrible cry of despair that could be heard through the whole neighborhood. A most unseemly incident occurred at the close of the sentence. About half a dozen persons were unmanly enough to express their approbation by applause. A general "s'sh" from the majority of the assemblage silenced these disgraceful exultations of those who were so disregardful of time and place as to publicly express delight in a court of justice that a wretched woman was sentenced to death.

AN OLD FRIEND.

For many years the Press of the country has chronicled the beneficial effects of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Editors, authors, physicians, merchants, officers of the army and navy, chemists counselors, ministers of the gospel; in short, a great cloud of witnesses of every profession, trade and calling, have testified to its efficacy as a tonic and regulating medicine. The names and statements of these witnesses have been published in the public prints. Many of them are well known to the whole public. Their testimony has never been challenged or impugned. This has been tried and pronounced, on the authority of those whose lives and health it has preserved, a pure, harmless and eminently salutary preparation. Attempts have been made to rival it. They have failed. There is nothing equal to the only great experienced by the afflicted who using this valuable specific. Its mild tone, its sure and vigorous action upon a disordered stomach, and the cleansing of the entire human body, recommend it to the whole community as a RELIABLE FRIEND.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States, and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett, of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called PINUS CANADENSIS WILD CHERRY COMPOUND, which is on or rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to exalt their action and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and all the lingering pulmonold and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try it, afterwards called for a half dozen, or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodnue, published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "it is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages, in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is eagerly taking with all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, he obtains a healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. The Pittsburgh Gazette

THE COURTS.

Court of Quarter Sessions.

This Court met Thursday at ten o'clock, Hon Thomas Mellon on the bench, Col. I. B. Dorr, District Attorney.

THE INTENT TO ROB CASE.

The case of Peter Stewart, indicted for an assault with intent to rob George Harman, a pedlar, at "Sweitzer Hall" drinking saloon, on Tuesday night, was resumed. The evidence amounted to about this: Harman fell in company with Stewart at the Rush House, in the Fifth ward, went thence to another drinking saloon, where they were refused liquor. They then proceeded to "Sweitzer Hall," and there indulged in beer. Harman, at least, was under the influence of excessive drink, and took a seat on a chair, when Stewart sat in his lap. In this situation Stewart took a watch from Harman's fob, and was endeavoring to unfasten the guard from the vest. Harman discovered this, objected to the proceeding, and Stewart left the place. Officer O'Mara, of the Mayor's police, had been watching the parties, was acquainted with Stewart's antecedents, and, noticing Harman's condition, suspected the former had some dishonest design upon him. Accordingly, when he noticed Stewart leaving the saloon, the officer entered and learned from Harman what had occurred. He was arrested, and Harman taken to the Mayor's office to make information. But for the vigilance and promptitude of the policeman, Stewart, in this maudlin condition, would have allowed this little matter to pass. The question in the case was as to the intention of the defendant. It was not pretended that there was any violence used, or threats made. Stewart's previous bad character was referred to, the fact being mentioned that a short time since he was discharged from the Penitentiary, where he was confined for stealing. As in a case of larceny, "bad character" would be desired, occupying between the Excelsior Iron Works of Lindsay, Owens & Semple, and eight acres to west of the Pittsburgh Forge and Iron Company, with numerous surrounding improvements.

Not for years has there been so desirable an opportunity for investment in lots offered. Possession, healthy and convenient location, and terms easy. All desiring a home of their own should attend this sale.

The Recent Philadelphia Calamity—Particulars of the Burning of the American Theatre—Firemen Killed and Wounded.

The American Theatre, on Walnut street, above Eighth, Philadelphia, took fire about ten o'clock, Wednesday night, and was entirely destroyed, a brief account of which we had by telegraph. The audience and actors escaped without serious injury, but during the conflagration the theatre wall fell out upon Walnut street and buried a great number of persons in the debris. Eleven firemen are known to have been killed, and about thirty wounded, some dangerously.

Some of the audience, together with a few of the male performers, did all they could to stay the progress of the flames by pulling down the scenery, and while thus engaged the drop curtain, together with the roller, fell. This compelled all to leave, and in a few moments the flames burst from the roof, causing a conflagration which was seen for many squares around. The interior of the house being made up of light, dry wood, canvas, paint, etc., the flames spread with great rapidity, and in a short time fell showers of sparks and great balls of fire were seen floating in the air, causing great apprehension for surrounding property.

The fire, it is supposed, originated in the stable on Sansom street, and situated immediately under the dressing rooms. The total loss by the fire is estimated at one hundred thousand dollars, on which there is an insurance of only thirty-five thousand. The actors and danseuses escaped in their stage dresses, and lost everything they had. The following is a list of the casualties as far as known:

Killed—James Dotty, Hibernia engine, a member of the Franklin engine, name unknown, head crushed; John Ford, Franklin engine; a citizen dressed in Scotch cap and striped pantaloons; Caleb Beetz, Washington engine; John Reynolds, Hibernia engine, a member of the Columbia hose, head mashed in, and could not be recognized by the members of his company; a young man dressed in citizen's clothes, aged about twenty years.

Wounded—Henry Scriber, Washington engine; William Mitchell, Washington engine, severely injured; Amos Kistone, Franklin engine, seriously; John Rock, Monongahela hose, cut on the head; Saml Jaqrers, Friendship engine, leg broken above the knee; Amos Jones, Lafayette hose, seriously injured and not expected to recover; John Kelly, Franklin engine, leg broken and severely injured about the back; Mathew Ferry, aged seventeen years, severely injured; John Ellis, Washington engine, dangerously hurt; Edward Regance, Washington engine, dangerously hurt; Joseph Franklin, smiffer hose, severely injured; a member of the Franklin engine, with his ancle cut; William Butler, Washington engine, badly injured; William Walters, leg broken and otherwise injured; George Ashman, of the Good Will, had his collar bone broken by some one on the roof of the building No 122 South Eighth street, throwing a trap door off. Mr. Ashman was on a ladder, and being struck, was precipitated to the side walk. The sad affair has cast quite a gloom over the city.

HELMBOLD'S

Concentrated Fluid Extract Sarsaparilla

Eradicates ERUPTIVE and ULCERATIVE DISEASES of the THROAT, NOSE, EYES, FIELDS, SCALP and SKIN.

Which so disfigure the appearance, PURIFIES the BLOOD, and arouses the system to healthy vitality, the remnants of DISEASES, hereditary or otherwise, are thoroughly eradicated. SCROFULOUS HUMORS, and all impurities taken by ADULTS and CHILDREN with perfect safety.

TWO TABLE SPOONFULS of the Extract of Sarsaparilla added to a pint of water, is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, and one bottle is equal to a gallon of the syrup of Sarsaparilla, or the decoctions as usually made.

AN INTERESTING LETTER is published in the Medico-Chirurgical Review, on the subject of the Extract of Sarsaparilla in certain anæmic affections, and when taken by ADULTS and CHILDREN with perfect safety. Speaking of those diseases arising from the excess of mercury he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla, as a purifier, is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I have experimented with. It is, in the strictest sense, a boon with this terrible affliction. It is peculiarly applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and the blood so impoverished, as to be the cause of the toxic class unavailable or injurious.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, June 20, 1867.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 137⅝; Eighty-one bonds, 112⅝; Five Twenties, 1862, 106⅝; Five Twenties, 1864, 108¼; Five Twenties, 1865, 107; 1865 Coupons, 106⅝; Seven Thirties, 106¼; Ten Forties, 104; Michigan Southern Railroad, 85⅝; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 76¾; Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago, 97; Erie, 39½; Chicago and Northwestern, 34⅝; Chicago and Northwestern preferred 58½; New York Central, 114½; Reading, 106⅝; Chicago and Rock Island, 93½; Western Union Telegraph, 41½; Gregory, 5,75; Corydon, 1,40; Quartz Hill, 1,50.

The feeling in bonds, gold and stocks is decidedly bearish. Gold has declined from 138¼ @137⅝, and closed at 137⅝, with light transactions. Government securities are also lower for all gold bonds; the currency bonds are higher, simply because the Government is buying. The investment demand for Five Twenties is light, and will probably remain so anything before July 1st, after the quarterly bank statement is over. With the daily improving condition of the crops business will revive and more money will be put to commercial enterprises and trade, and thus the upward movement of bonds will be checked.

Mining shares are better, and with favorable news from the formerly mismanaged mines will gradually improve, yet, no much is to be expected from there before another season. Mining property is in a deplorable condition; costly machinery was put up without having any other show of value the precious metals but the surface indications.

—A Fort Wayne (Indiana) special to the Cincinnati Commercial, under date of Tuesday, says:

A examination of the books of Alexander Wiley County Treasurer, has developed the fact that he is defaulter to the amount of thirty thousand dollars or upwards, some of whom are our wealthiest citizens have taken possession of the office, and are giving the matter a thorough investigation. It is not known who is directly responsible, but there seems to have been gross carelessness somewhere. Mr. Wiley is now in Chicago, and should return. It is supposed a full examination will corroborate his statement, and reveal the guilty party.

—In the condition of the Western money markets there is no material change to note. At Cincinnati the demand for loans, as compar ed with the supply of capital, is reported good and the discount market is moderately ac ive at 8 to 12 per cent. At Chicago there is a fair inquiry for discounts on grain paper, but the names of borrowers are closely scrutinized, and they need to be backed with undoubted collaterals. The mercantile season is light, and the national banks are not remitting the June compound interest notes to New York for payment, which has caused an amount of plethora to there nearly equal to the compound notes withdrawn to be placed in bank vaults at their stead, the national currency set requiring a reserve of 25 per cent. of legal tenders be held against deposits and circulation. It is satisfactory to find that the western journals report the crop prospects as favorable, and that as the season advances, the signs of abundance become everywhere more decided.

—The failure of several National banks holding Government money is reviving discussion as to the propriety of the old Independent Treasury system, under which the Government held its own, by its own officers, free from the control of the banks. Transactions are reported in reference to the failure at New Orleans, which, if true, show that a separation of Bank and State cannot be brought about too soon. The Journal of Commerce thinks that "the present is a good time for the Secretary of the Treasury to revise his system of deposits with a view to a better plan for insuring the safety of the public funds." The Tr asury is not a loan office, to furnish money facilities for traders or other borrowers. The funds received for the public use should be kept intact until they are disbursed. To give the officers of the Government the right to lend these funds at pleasure is to place in their hands the means of controlling the market, to the manifest peril of all private interests. But the system of securing the public money in pet institutions, whose officers may use it or loan it pleasure, without any direct responsibility save the obligation to return it on demand, is worse yet, and is the most flagrant our option. The Sub-Treasury system was opposed by every needy borrower and every industry pl ht-and-ruinous, who desired access to the pub le crib. But in its operation it soon commenced itself to the right-minded of all parties, and became an honored institution. There needed but one additi nal feature to render it perfect. This was to open its vaults to the depositis of specie, so that the whi le gold movem nt of the country could be transacted through its certificates without disturbing the coin. We hope that it will not be necessary to wait until further heavy losses occur before some measure of precaution is adopted to secure the safe-keeping of public funds.—Philad. Ledger

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, June 20, 1867.

CRUDE—The Crude market presents no new characteristics worthy of notice. Spot oil is dull but unchanged, but for all 1868, there still seems to be some inquiry, and there are, from all that we can learn, more buyers than sellers for that particular delivery, and 70 barrels, on spot, at 66; 300 and 1000 bbls, on spot, at same figure; and 10 000 bbls for all 18.8, buyer's option, at 12½. There are but comparatively few refineries in operation, and to this may be attributed the very limited demand for spot oil—the sales for future deliveries, are mainly on speculation. The latest advices from Oil City report Crude at 42 per barrel, but even at this reduction, there is no margin in shipping to this market.

REFINED—There was but a single operation in bonded oil to-day, at least we had but one reported, 2000 bbls, 900 each for September, October, November and December, at 28½—standard white. Quotations may be fairly given at 21½ for June; 22 for July, and 23 for August, standard white, delivered in Philadelphia. It was asserted by some parties to-day that the market was a little better east, but if so, it must have been very slight, as there was little or nothing said about it, and it had no perceptible effect on the market here. Serious apprehensions are entertained that quite a number of refiners operations, to use a common p rase, will "go up" within the next thirty days, as they have some high priced contracts maturing, and it is feared, and with good reason, they will hardly cannot stand a loss of from $1 to $6 per bbl.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, June 20, 1867.

ARRIVALS OF STOCK DURING THE WEEK.

The following statement shows the number of cars of stock received at the Central Yards during the week ending Wednesday, June 19th:

	Cattle.	Hogs.	Sheep.
P. Ft. W. & C. R. R.	54 cars	22 cars	2 cars

CATTLE.

The arrivals were liberal this week, and with a restricted demand, and unfavorable advices from the East, the market was an exceeding y hard one, and compared with last week, prices have still further declined. The quality of the cattle on sale was fully up to the usual standard—one drover alone had eighteen car loads of prime fat Ohio cattle, the best of which he sold at 9 t 9½, and the same cattle two weeks ago would have brought 10c, and possibly a fraction more. Good shipping cattle sold at from 8 to 8¾, which last week would have brought 9, and common and inferior stock was hard to dispose of any price. The eastern shippers are represented as having suffered pretty severely during the past two weeks, and this week is the case, as they have been operating very cautiously for the time being, and this week concessions had to be made by holders in order to bring these Philadelphia buyers up to the scratch. Besides, the impression prevails that the prige of cattle must come down with Flour, Grain and other articles, and as a consequence, there is not much of a speculative feeling apparent, and the demand is restricted almost entirely to supplying the legitimate wants of the trade.

SHEEP.

The arrivals of Sheep were light this week, but the market, nevertheless, was a tame one, and the offerings, generally, were of an inferior quality. Prime fat Sheep, sold at fair prices, ranging from $5,00 to 5,75, and choice may be quoted at 6c—one small bunch brought the outside figure. Common and inferior continue very dull and, indeed, it is hard to sell this grade of Sheep at any price, as they are not wanted. The majority of the buyers this week were from Philadelphia, and the great bulk of shipments were for that market. So far as we can learn, there are but few sheep shipped to Baltimore.

RIVER NEWS.

The river has receded about one inch since the date of our last report, and last evening the Monongahela pier marks indicated three feet one inch. The weather yesterday was cloudy but pleasant; towards evening there were indications of rain.

The Argosy cleared for Cincinnati, as did also the Leclaire for Parkersburg. The Argosy, we understand, has been chartered to run in the Cincinnati and Sandy packet trade, and, therefore, she will not likely be back here until towards fall. In the meantime, Captain Vandergrift will be looking after his new boat.

The Armadillo did not get off for St. Louis yesterday, as expected, but she will positively leave to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind.

The Importer left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Tuesday, and the towboat Alps, enroute from Memphis to Pittsburgh, was at Cairo the same day.

Telegrams at St. Louis, announce the arrival of the Amelia Poe, Yorktown and Mountaineer at Fort Benton. The Yorktown was to have left there for St. Louis on the 13th inst.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of Wednesday, says: The Maggie Hays, Captain, A McCarty, passed up yesterday, from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, with a fine cargo, a portion of which consists of 100 barrels flour for Portsmouth, 200 tons iron ore for Steubenville, and 100 barrels sand for Wheeling.

The Belle, Capt. Thomas Loughrey, on account of the the heavy f g, did no arrive from Pittsburgh until yes erday morning. She therefore laid over until to-day, when she will take her departure for Pittsburgh, and be here on time next trip. She reshipped 50 tons of freight on the Louisville mail boats, and a large lot for New Orleans on the Ezra Potter. The Wauwatta, Capt. Thos. Stuman, will follow the Ezra Potter to New Orleans.

The Evansville and Cairo packet, Armada, has evidently taken a dislike to the boats of the Cincinnati and Memphis Packet Company since the Silver Moon gave her the go-by. Monday's Journal says that the Armadillo had a bush the other day, and, of course, according to that paper, the first named boat came off victorious.

The Believe-non and the towboats Diamond and W. H. Brown, were at Louisville on Tuesday last.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of June 19th, says: A factor here has compiled the following statement of stocks at the various landing points: Stock of cotton in Arkansas on the close of the cotton week, June 14, 1867, as made up by one of our city factors, from official sources.
